<ul style="list-style-type: none"> This was one of the best instructors I have had. I struggled a lot in this course, and I always knew that I could reach out to Professor Chamberlain for anything, and I would get a prompt response. He is very good at explaining things and walking you through issues. I always received very helpful and useable feedback on all assignments. This class with Dr. Chamberlain has been my best class experience at ERAU so far. He was always available to help with questions and responded very quickly, didn't belittle me or make me feel stupid for asking them, provided meaningful answers that were helpful, and feedback that showed he actually looked at my work (and wasn't just replying from some template). All of our interactions were positive, and left me feeling like I was heard, and got the answers I needed.

25 - General comments regarding this course:

Response Rate 2/4 (50%)

- I personally did not feel that this course was for someone with no coding experience but then again I may have just struggled more than the average person at picking up on this topic.
- The course content was very well spaced, readings were always relevant (and were supplemented with videos that were also relevant), and the course was organized in a way that progressed well. My only comment is that the course did not feel like an "introduction" to computer science, coming from someone who has taken other introductory computer science classes, and uses programming at work. Without my background experience, I feel like I would've been struggling much more with the content, and that it got difficult quickly.

27 - What factors/attributes did you consider when rating this faculty member's teaching effectiveness?

Response Rate 2/4 (50%)

- He was always very thorough and able to be reached to answer any questions I had.
- Dr. Chamberlain treated me as an individual and answered all questions in a way to enhance my course experience. The workload was relevant to the content, and well spaced, and grades were received in a timely manner with feedback that improved my understanding.
